EDUC 460.12: Specialization I – Secondary English Language Arts
Winter, 2021

Instructor: Dr. Catherine Burwell
Email: cburwell@ucalgary.ca
Virtual Office Hours: Please contact me for a Zoom appointment
Start and end date: January 11th - March 12th

Zoom meeting times: Required Zoom sessions: January 11, 25, February 8, March 1 (12:30 - 2:00pm). Optional Zoom sessions: January 18, February 1, February 22, March 8 (12:30 – 2:00 pm).

Last Day to Add/Drop/Swap: Due to the non-standard dates associated with this program, please check your Student Centre for the important dates pertaining to your section.
Pre-requisite: Due to the multiple pathways in the Bachelor of Education, please consult Undergraduate Programs in Education for questions related to pre-requisite courses.
Email: Students are required to use a University of Calgary (@ucalgary.ca) email address for all correspondence.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The intent of the Specialization I Seminar is to introduce students to the concepts, theory, and design planning related to teaching within the specialization of English Language Arts. Theory as connected to an understanding of practical classroom experiences will inform the course curriculum and will be explored through course readings, analysis of teaching artifacts, and through the design of discipline-based learning and assessment plans. Topics in teaching and learning will include teaching inclusively and addressing the needs of diverse learners, effective integration of technology, and discipline-based inquiry. Assignments will present the opportunity for students to develop an understanding of short-term instructional design and to begin to examine curriculum shifts in the province.

Section-Specific Description
Secondary English Language Arts I will inquire into the complex dimensions of becoming literate in the 21st century. The role of literature, language, technology, media and the arts will be explored. Students will have the opportunity to make connections between curriculum, classroom practices, literary texts, and theories of literacy and language learning. Particular attention will be paid to teaching language arts in classrooms where students arrive with diverse strengths, experiences and identities. We will consider, for example, the role of culturally relevant approaches to the language arts, the needs of English language learners, and the call for education that addresses decolonization and reconciliation between Indigenous and non-Indigenous peoples.

LEARNING INTENTIONS:

The course is guided by the following learning intentions:

1) Develop a foundational understanding of the nature and purpose of the language arts as related to teaching and learning, including specialized language, concepts, and terminology.
2) Understand teacher as designer including the use of available resources for designing learning and assessment.
3) Explore and apply introductory theory related to the teaching of language arts with an emphasis on designing discipline-based tasks and assessment processes, as well as creating an adaptive classroom learning environment to better meet the needs of today’s diverse learners.
4) Successfully design short-term learning and assessment plans to deepen understanding of key ideas/concepts within the Alberta English Language Arts Program of Study.

COURSE DELIVERY: This course will be delivered on-line through a D2L environment.

REQUIRED READINGS:

Our resources in this course weave together academic articles on the teaching of ELA, Alberta policy documents and programs of study, practical curriculum design materials, and literary texts.

In addition to the articles listed above, you will also be required to read one or two of the novels from the following titles, in preparation for your final assignment. Please note that Inside Out & Back Again and The Crossover are meant to be read together, as are Any’s Ghost and This One Summer. All other novels will be read on their own. (Novels are available in bookstores and libraries.)

LEARNING TASK 1: WHY STUDY ENGLISH? (Due Friday, February 5)

In her article “From the boundaries: Rhetoric and knowledge in secondary English classrooms,” Sarah Golsby-Smith begins by recounting a conversation with a student who demands “Why should we study English?” In “The trouble with English,” Allan Luke asks “what counts as English?” and responds by suggesting that English educators must explore multiple avenues for providing “more equitable access to the social construction, distribution, and critical uses of discourse, text, and practice.” And in “Relation encounters with Indigenous literatures,” Aubrey Hanson complicates too-easy conceptualizations of reconciliation and asks “What might it mean, instead, to read for resurgence?” Each of these questions reveals English as a category to be troubled, a discipline in need of re-thinking.

In this assignment, I would like you to respond to one of the questions below as way of reflecting thoughtfully on the English language arts. Your response may take a number of forms. It could be a conventional academic essay, an imagined Socratic dialogue between a teacher and student, an illustrated story, an animation, a short video or a podcast. However, all responses must be persuasive – that is, you must fashion a personal stand on the question, and then set out to prove your interpretation using relevant and varied evidence.

- Why study English?
- What counts as English?
- What does it mean to teach a text responsibly?

All responses must refer to at least 2 of the following sources:

- Alberta Education Programs of Study
You may also want to draw upon:

- Studio group and class Zoom discussions
- Readings from previous courses
- Texts (poems, short stories, films, novels, videos, comics) that were part of your own English education
- Observations made during your field experience

Criteria for assessment of Learning Task 1

- Does your response articulate a clear, insightful and persuasive argument?
- Does your response use relevant and varied evidence from the readings and other resources to support your argument?
- Does your response demonstrate a strong beginning understanding of the concepts and theories related to the teaching of ELA?
- Is your response expressed in the most appropriate medium for your argument? Does it use the affordances of the medium thoughtfully and creatively?

We will review the assignment and its assessment during a Zoom class, and a rubric using these criteria will be made available on D2L.

LEARNING TASK 2: CREATION OF SHORT-TERM LEARNING AND ASSESSMENT PLAN (Due March 5, 2021)

For this assignment, students will produce a short-term learning and assessment plan based on the novel they have read with their studio group. While students are required to submit individual lesson plans, I will ask that each group also produce a very brief description or outline of a unit plan for their novel. After that, each student will “zoom in” on one 80-minute class within the unit (or two/three lessons of 40 minutes for Junior High classes). Although your lesson plans will be individually assessed, you are encouraged to work with your studio group members to generate ideas and review one another’s drafts.

Each student will hand in a planning package that includes the following:

1. Skeleton/descriptive unit plan (group):

   In order to provide a context for the single lesson you are focusing on, please give a brief outline of the unit has a whole. This part of the assignment should be completed as a group, and each student will hand in the same unit plan. There are three possible ways for you to undertake this portion of the assignment. You may also combine these approaches if you like.

   a. Provide a calendar with very brief, one-line descriptions of what will happen each day. (Please see the Word on the Street calendar for an example.)

   OR
b. Use the Understanding by Design template introduced in class to give an outline of your unit plan.

OR

c. Write a 250-300 word description of the main elements of your unit plan.

2. Lesson and assessment plan (individual):

You may structure and format your lesson plan in the way that seems most effective to you, but please ensure you include the following elements in each plan:

- Title for the plan
- Intended grade
- Materials required: Provide a complete list of all the materials required for the lesson. If students are required to bring materials or technology, please note this too.
- Goals or objectives: Explain the goals/objectives of the lesson plan using the Programs of Study. (You may wish to paraphrase these objectives in your own words.) You should go beyond the front pages of the Programs of Study and begin to delve into some of the specific objectives later in the document.
- Assessment: Provide a detailed explanation of what authentic tasks students will be asked to perform. Explain how you will assess whether the learning objectives have been met through these tasks. Keep in mind the importance of formative assessment.
- Learning activities: Provide a detailed explanation of the learning activities that will lead to the desired results. Ensure that the sequence of the activities is clear and easy to follow.
- Options for inclusion/differentiation: Describe at least one way you will differentiate the content, process, or learning environment to accommodate the needs of diverse learners.
- Rationale: In providing a rationale for your pedagogical choices, you have two options:

Begin your lesson plan with a 250-300 word explanation of your design and the reason for your choices. You may feel free to refer to group discussions, the group unit plan, and your own ideas about the significance of the language arts as articulated in Learning Task 1.

OR

Annotate your lesson plan (300-400 words) by recording your thoughts and decision making while creating the plans. Explain the reasons for various choices you have made.

With both options, you may want to refer to the Program of Studies and/or articles we have read together in class.

Criteria for assessment of Learning Task 2
• Does your rationale or set of annotations demonstrate a strong understanding of course concepts and the role they play in planning?
• Does your plan communicate a strong understanding of curricular outcomes and make appropriate links to the Programs of Study?
• Is your lesson plan informed by disciplinary knowledge? Is it engaging, student-centred and inquiry-based? Are all parts of the lesson plan well-integrated?
• Is your lesson plan communicated clearly, so it is easy to envision how the lesson will unfold?
• Is your lesson plan effective in encouraging students to form deep understandings of content objectives?
• Are appropriate assessment strategies (including formative assessment) integrated into the lesson?
• Does the lesson plan include appropriate and well-integrated options for inclusion and differentiation?

We will review the assignment and its assessment during a Zoom class, and a rubric using these criteria will be made available on D2L.

LEARNING TASK 3: STUDIO GROUP PARTICIPATION (ongoing) AND LEARNING PORTFOLIO (Due March 12)

Each member of the course will be placed in a studio group of 4-5 people at the beginning of the course. Groups will be formed using your novel selections, and will meet to discuss course readings, novels and lesson plans for LT 3. The studio groups are intended to provide you with a community of peers to help deepen your understanding of the course materials and themes.

You will be expected to meet over Zoom with your studio group at least once a week for an hour for the full eight weeks of the course. It is your responsibility to schedule and attend these Zoom meetings. During the hour, you are asked to discuss:

1. The weekly readings using the prompts and discussion questions provided (although you may move beyond these questions to explore other related topics or questions). It will be important for you to have read the articles before attending the meeting.

2. Your novel and lesson plan ideas related to it. You will be given prompts each week to guide your discussions and to help you move towards creating a brief description of a unit plan and individual lesson plans related to the novel. One group member is asked to make notes on this portion of the discussion each week.

Following the weekly meeting, you will be asked to post two items (one individual and one group) to the D2L shell:

1. An individual response to the week’s readings. Responses should be 2 paragraphs in length, and may answer one of the discussion questions posed or may provide a different perspective on the article and the issues it raises. Students are encouraged to draw from their group dialogues to help formulate a response. Individual responses should be posted to D2L by Friday of each week. While you are not required to respond to other group members, I encourage you to read posts from both your own and other groups, as your peers are a significant source of knowledge and experience.

2. Notes from the group’s discussion of the novel. While notes don’t need to be written up in formal paragraphs, they should be complete enough for other readers to get a sense of the conversation. Notes should be posted to the group’s D2L forum by Friday of each week.

At the end of the semester, you will submit an individual reflection on your learning portfolio, which consists of the entries you have posted to D2L during the semester. You will also submit a written reflection on your group’s dialogues and learning in relation to the novel reading and lesson planning.

Please organize your reflections in the following way:

1. Write a 2-3 page reflective essay that meaningfully discusses your own learning in relation to the entries you have included in your portfolio. You might consider what you have learned about the course topics (e.g., critical literacy, multiliteracies, authentic writing), about planning for engaged learning or about the potential for dialogue to deepen understanding. The direction of the reflection is up to you.

   At the end of your reflection, provide an assessment of your entries and your participation with your group during Zoom meetings. How deeply did you engage with the course materials? Did you read all materials carefully before meeting on Zoom? Did you consider and respond to your groupmates’ ideas thoughtfully? How did you contribute to building a learning community? Did you spend time carefully crafting your responses? What might you have done differently? At the end of the assessment, give yourself a grade based on your engagement with the course materials, your contribution to the studio group’s learning community, and your reflective essay.

2. Working with your studio group members, write a two-page reflection on your collective learning as a group. What were the most important insights that you gained over the semester about the key concepts related to teaching the language arts? What did you learn about the process of planning? What insights did you gain into group processes?

   At the end of the reflection, provide an assessment of your group’s effectiveness as a learning community over the semester. Did you build on one another’s insights, knowledge and experience? Were you able to create a sense of community? Were you able to generate deeper understanding of the course readings and important course concepts? Did you support and encourage one another in your lesson planning, and provide valuable feedback on drafts? At the end of the assessment, give yourselves a grade based on your ability to build community, your success in generating deeper understanding of course concepts, and your group reflection.

The Expectation of Excellence in Professional Work

Please review the Academic Calendar carefully. It describes the program and provides detailed schedules and important dates. It contains information on expectations for student work and professional conduct. In addition, procedures are described regarding concern about student performance in the program. Please pay especially careful attention to details and descriptions in the following topic areas:

- The Importance of Attendance and Participation in Every Class

As this is a professional program, experiences are designed with the expectation that all members will be fully involved in all classes and in all coursework experiences. As you are a member of a learning community your contribution is vital and highly valued, just as it will be when you take on the professional responsibilities of being a teacher. We expect that you will not be absent from class with the exception of documented instances of personal or family illness or for religious requirements.

- Engagement in Class Discussion and Inquiry
Another reason for the importance of attendance and participation in every class is that the course involves working with fellow students to share ideas and thinking. For example, each class you will work with a small group to engage fellow students in discussions on work being considered in class. You will also help other groups by providing ideas for scholarly inquiry in assignments. If you find that you are experiencing difficulties as a group collaborating, please inform the instructor.

EXPECTATIONS FOR WRITING

All written assignments (including, to a lesser extent, written exam responses) will be assessed at least partly on writing skills. Writing skills include not only surface correctness (grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, etc.) but also general clarity and organization. Sources used in research papers must be properly documented. If you need help with your writing, you may use the writing support services in the Learning Commons. For further information, please refer to the official online University of Calgary Calendar, Academic Regulations, E. Course Information, E.2: Writing Across the Curriculum: http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/e-2.html

LATE SUBMISSIONS

All late submissions of assignments must be discussed with the instructor prior to the due date. Students may be required to provide written documentation of extenuating circumstances (e.g. statutory declaration, doctor’s note, note from the University of Calgary Wellness Centre, obituary notice). A deferral of up to 30 days may be granted at the discretion of the Associate Dean of Undergraduate Programs with accompanying written evidence.

ISSUES WITH GROUP TASKS

With respect to group work, if your group is having difficulty collaborating effectively, please contact the instructor immediately. If a group is unable to collaborate effectively or discuss course materials online in a timely manner, the instructor may re-assign members to different groups or assign individual work for completion.

Students in the B.Ed. program must have an overall GPA of 2.5 in the semester to continue in the program without repeating courses.

Academic Accommodation

Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services; SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. For additional information on support services and accommodations for students with disabilities, visit www.ucalgary.ca/access/. Students who require an accommodation in relation to their coursework based on a protected ground other than disability should communicate this need in writing to their Instructor. The full policy on Student Accommodations is available at http://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/student-accommodation-policy.pdf.

Academic Misconduct

For information on academic misconduct and its consequences, please see the University of Calgary Calendar at http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html

Attendance/ Prolonged Absence

Students may be asked to provide supporting documentation for an exemption/special request. This may include, but is not limited to, a prolonged absence from a course where participation is required, a missed course assessment, a deferred examination, or an appeal. Students are encouraged to submit documentation that will support their situation. Supporting documentation may be dependent on the reason noted in their personal statement/explanation provided to explain their situation. This could be medical certificate/documentation, references, police reports, invitation letter, third party letter of support or a statutory declaration etc. The decision to provide supporting documentation that best suits the situation is at the discretion of the student.

Falsification of any supporting documentation will be taken very seriously and may result in disciplinary action through the Academic Discipline regulations or the Student Non-Academic Misconduct policy.
